One of Bismarck's Habits.

Once when Bismarck was a cavalry officer he was standing with some other officers on a bridge over a lake. As he was about to give an order his groom, Hildebraud, rode one of the horses to water close by the bridge. Fire Ever Each internal cold. Suddenly the horse lost footing, and Restores the Senses of Teste and Small. It Restores the Senses of Teste and Small. It the other officers could collect their at Druggittor by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren street, New senses Bismarck had cast oil his sword and his uniform and had thrown himself in the lake to save his corvant. By good fortune he seized him, but the man clung to him so closely in his death agony that he had to dive before he could loose himself from him. Bismarck rose to the surface, raising his servant with him, and brought him safe The next day the sevant was as well as commotion. They petitioned the superintendent, who obtained for the young officer the medallion "for rescue from danger." And now on the superintendent of the superintendent, who obtained for the young officer the medallion "for rescue from danger." And now on the superintendent of the ever. But the little town that had witirom danger." And now, on great occasions, the well known Prussian safety medal may be seen beside the proudest stars in Christendom on the breast of the famous creator of united fermany. Bismarck, it is said, is prouder of his first medal than of all the rest put together. One day in the plenitude of Bismarck's power a noble ister approached the premier, and with a tinge of satire asked him the meaning of this modest decoration. He

COFFEE CURE FOR HORSES.-The German naturalist, Martin, relates a case he recently met of a horse which owed its life to coffee. It was in such JOSIAH H. D. SMOOT, a bad way that it was considered incurable, and the owner sold the animal for fifteen dollars.

The animal was then almost a skele ton and so weak that it could hardly walk. The man who bought the horse immediately began to treat it with coffee, giving infusions of roasted coffee beans, and also coffee beans ground FLOORING, DOORS, SASH, BLINDS and mixed with honey. In a short time the horse began to improve, and after a few months its new owner was offered $250 for it.

He told Herr Martin he had brought round by the same treatment many horses which had been overworked or had lost their strength and appetite.-Boston Globe.

THE IRON DUKE'S PARROT.—An old WHITE AND RED ASH, SHAMOKIN AND LYKEN'S VALLEY. lady, soon after the battle of Waterloo, determined to show her greatful admiration of the Duke of Wellington by the gift of a parrot, which she took with her into the Duke's presence. His Grace declined the gift with polite thanks. The old lady begged him to hear the bird speak once. She took the baize off the cage and said, "Polly, this is the Duke of Wellington." "See the conquering hero comes!" cried the parret, flapping his wings. This was too much for the Duke, who heard the pet sing the national anthem, and accepted the gift. He afterwards kept the bird in his own room, and it won ite a reputation among its new friends,—queckett's Saylags and Doings. ANTHRACITE,
